To venture into space we must be strong-willed and determined. We must be fully committed to its exploration and discovery; space permits no half measures and is unforgiving of mistakes.

Every designer's dirty little secret is that they copy other designers work.
They see work they like, and they imitate it. Rather cheekily, they call this inspiration.

ANNUAL REPORTS

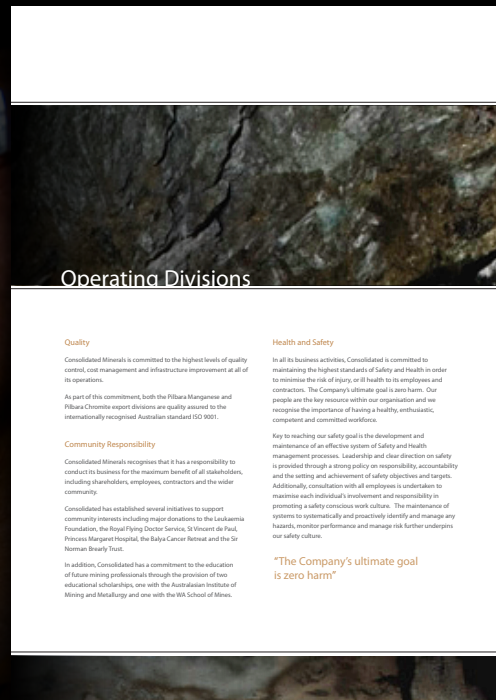

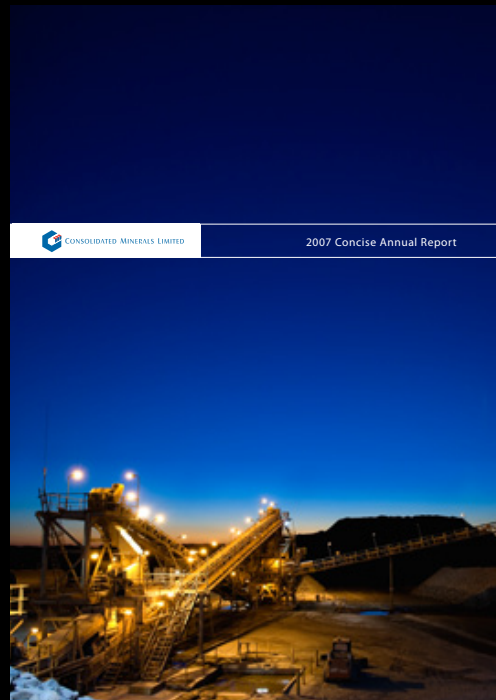

THE 2009 AND 2010 KAGARA ANNUAL REPORT

It doesn't get more corporate than Annual Reports. When submitting concepts for Annual Reports I always try and give the clients several concepts that might be slightly outside what they might ordinarily go for as well as the more classical corporate stylings. These two Kagara Annual Reports are examples of the client choosing my more creative concepts over others that fit more closely with Kagar's style guide. Sometimes clients can surprise you by opting for something different.

ANNUAL REPORTS

Working with images supplied by clients can sometimes be less than thrilling, luckily Consolidated Minerals has an amazing image collection. Tweaking images is a essential to bringing depth and emotion to any documents.

Some of many posters done for Chevron. When walking through the Chevron offices in QV1 I noticed half of the posters on walls were done by me.

Maintenance Improvements at DLNG

Greg Gamble a CA/V employee was personally impacted by the fires. With the help of ConocoPhillips he flew home to be with his wife, while CA/V provided him with a much needed generator. Greg's story is included in this edition of the Breeze.

The bushfires that ravaged Victoria's countryside and claimed the lives of at least 173 people on 7 February 2009 are Australia's worst natural disaster. It may be weeks or months before authorities fully understand the extent of the damage and loss of life.

Financial and other aid has been pouring in from around the country, as well as overseas, in support of the bushfire victims, and ConocoPhillips and its employees have also been digging deep in the spirit of compassion and generosity.

In total, the Australasia Business Unit and company donations equaled $142,000 and we would like to sincerely thank you all for your generosity, compassion and support – a true reflection of our core SPIRIT values. The company donated $100,000 to the Red Cross Victoria Bushfires Appeal in the first few days of the tragedy. The ABU then held a range of fund-raising activities and donated a generous $22,000, with the company contributing an additional $20,000, based on its dollar-for-dollar matching policy.

Thanks also to those who organised and contributed to the morning tea, raffle and Name the Teddy competition. A blood drive was also organised in March in support of the Red Cross.

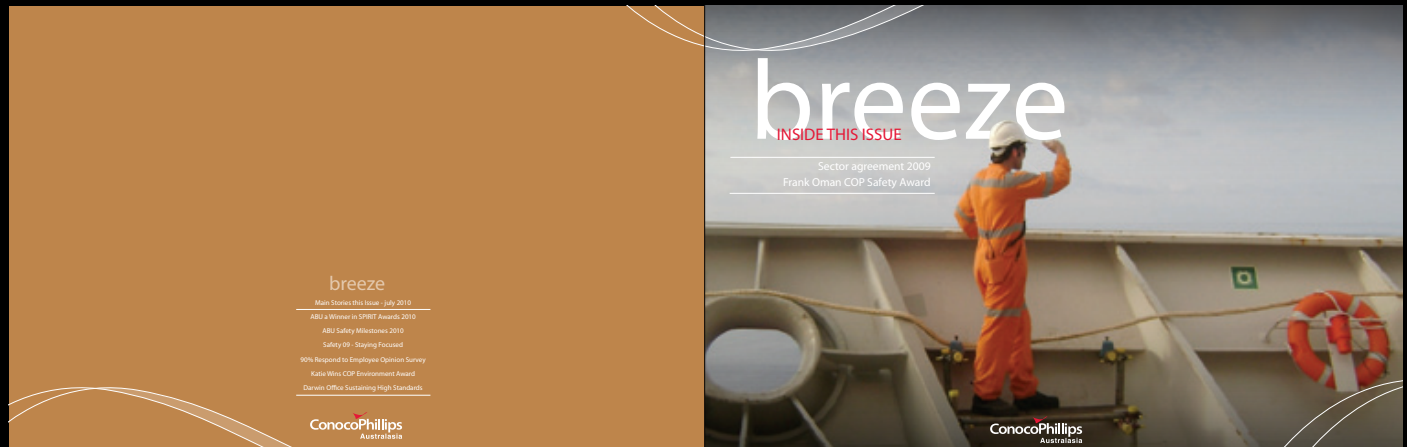

"The way that a wonderful success thanks to ConocoPhillips and the staff who helped us out. We're grateful to the team."

Juliana Plummer, wife of Alan Plummer (Operations Supervisor on the FSO) was the driving force of the initiative and for ConocoPhillips involvement. Her passion and commitment to the program, as a member of the organising team, ensured adequate sponsorship of the project and appropriate support for the 17 students.

The students joined a group of unemployed young people each day in the village of Triloka, three and a half hours east from the capital Dili, to work on a range of activities, including:

The overall goal of the initiative was to achieve personal challenges, develop mutual cross-cultural awareness, learn new life skills, and positively make a difference to the quality of life for members of a small Timorese village. It would also create a unique opportunity for both young Timorese and Australians to think and act as global citizens.

The Australian Business Unit's Workplace Diversity Team was one of nine winners in the ConocoPhillips 2009 SPIRIT of Performance Awards. The Australasia Business Unit's Workplace Diversity Team was one of nine winners in the ConocoPhillips 2009 SPIRIT of Performance Awards.

EVERYTHING IS DESIGNED. FEW THINGS ARE DESIGNED WELL.

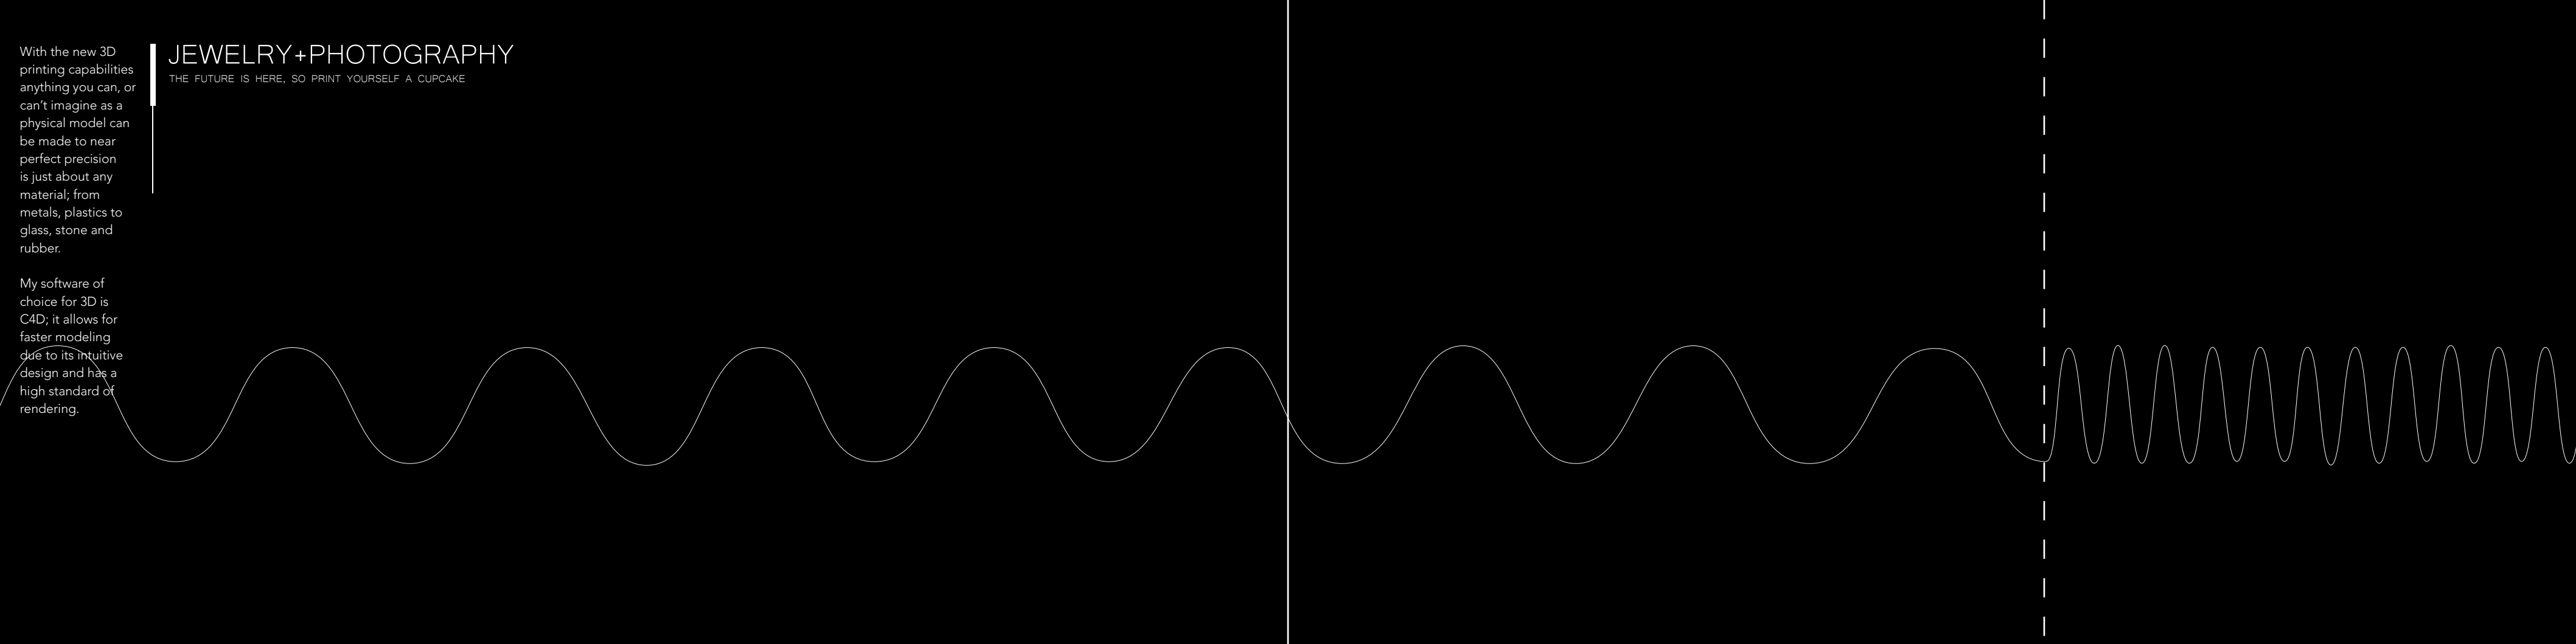

With the new 3D printing capabilities anything you can, or can't imagine as a physical model can be made to near perfect precision is just about any material; from metals, plastics to glass, stone and rubber.

My software of choice for 3D is C4D; it allows for faster modeling due to its intuitive design and has a high standard of rendering.

THE FUTURE IS HERE, SO PRINT YOURSELF A CUPCAKE

For solid silver the model is originally printed in layers using wax, then cast in silver using the lost wax method. The same ring can also be printed in a number of different materials.

A ring celebrating the Liverpool Football Club, the motto "you will never walk alone" is circled three times around the ring, and the team crest sits atop.

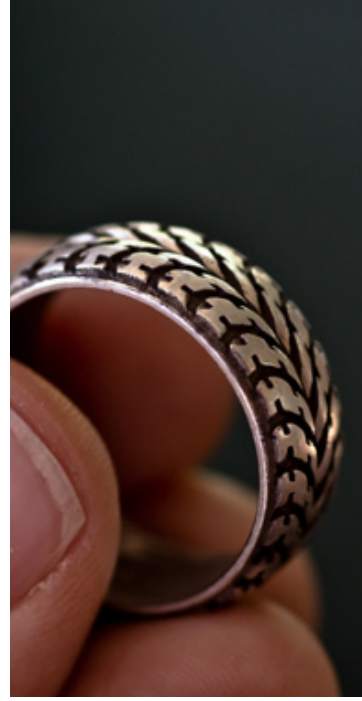

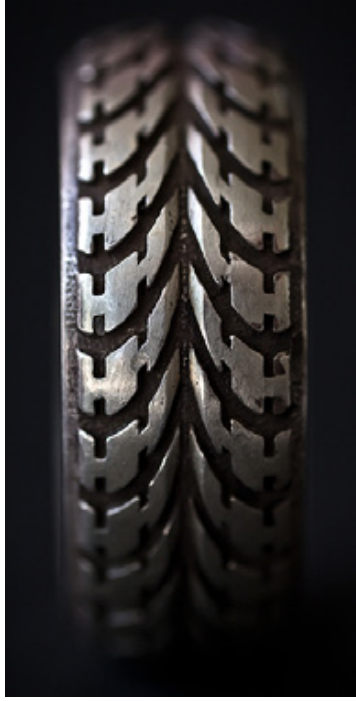

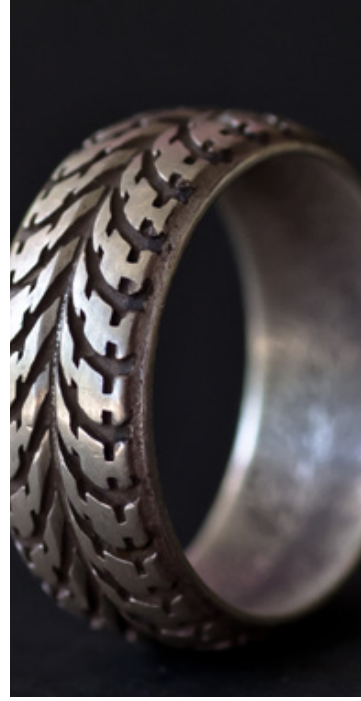

Prototype

One of the first units manufactured of a product, which is tested so that the design can be changed if necessary before the product is manufactured commercially .

This ring's design was based on a bicycle tyre tread, and is hand finished to give a robust appearance.

Silver

noun

A very ductile malleable brilliant greyish-white element having the highest electrical and thermal conductivity of any metal.
